

Get the inside scoop on antitrust law, practice and enforcement from the real players within China.

How exactly does China's anti-monopoly law operate with regard to EU and U.S. antitrust/competition compliance? How is the AML used to promote and facilitate Chinese enterprises, joint ventures and foreign business relations?

Questions like these are addressed in the China Antitrust Law Journal. Editor-in-Chief of the CHAIJ and international antitrust expert, Frank Fine, brings together much-needed clarity and analysis from antitrust experts from all over the world in China Antitrust Law Journal. This unique combination of cutting-edge articles examines the antitrust and competitive situation in the People's Republic of China. These articles are written by key players who are on the ground in Beijing: government officials who enforce these laws, law professors who teach, and antitrust lawyers who practice in this field, plus businesspeople and others "in the know."

Articles inside the first issue of China Antitrust Law Journal include:

- In Consideration of an EU-China Free Trade Agreement: Key Issues on State Aid and Subsidies by Sujin Chan-Allen
- Distribution Agreements under China's Anti-Monopoly Law and the Hong Kong Competition Ordinance by Sandra Marco Colino
- China's Anti-Monopoly Law: Shortcomings and Potential Solutions by Yong Huang, Shanming Jin and Frank Fine
- Balancing the Application of China's Anti-Monopoly Law and Intellectual Property Policies by Xianlin Wang
